We hear from Washington that the Conformed Committee on Lecompton make but slow headway. The propositions from the Senate mem bers have all been rejected, and it is not probable that those from the House side will be acceptable to the Senate. We hope and believe that the Swindle is effectually killed.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs have decided to recommend the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The Senate Committee on Commerce, Sounter Hantin, of Maine, slone dissenting, have reported against all River and Harbor appropriations. This city is rapidly filling up with officials, and officers of the army, destined for Utah. Among the arrivals is Capt. James. H. We might lot the spelling, &c., pass, had Mr. ---- only informed us where his former residence might have been, and given us the name of the place to which he has "muved," This Place" is rather indefinite, when the name of no place is mentioned. We expect, in the course of time, when our friend does not find the Sentinel coming to hand, that we shall receive another interesting letter from him, angrily aquiring why we have not "cont his paper," REDUCTION IN THE POLICE FORCE .-- Our state-nout with regard to the reduction of the Police force was not precisely accurate. The Mayor, did, indeed, direct the reduction to be made, but not knowing the relative claims or merits of the non composing the force, he left it to Chief Back to decide who should be retained and whodischarged. The Police now numbers 10; and subject to comply with this order, with the 9 Ward Constables, constitutes, it is thought, a sufficient force for all ordinary Police.

This order was placed in the bands of Mr. Beck on the day of its date, and on the following duties. If any emergency should require an incrosss of this force, there would be no difficulty ed to receive no now husiness after the 90th obtaining, at the shortest notice, as many special policemon as would be needed.

THE BARQUE AMERICAN REPUBLIC ASSORE. The barque American Republic Capt. Davis, bound from Eric, Pa., to this port, ran ashore on the beach on Saturday night, near the feet or Chleago street. The night was not a stormy ouc, but there was semething of a fog on the lake, and to designate the persons to be discharged. Mr. the Captain mistock an illuminated shanty on Beck then left the office, with the list marked so the hearth where a Saturday night "tablanty" was going on, for the light on the Straight Cut, and bolore the error was discovered the vessel was up high on the beach. The Republic was light and she has been scuttled to prevent her from straining. She lies on a sandy bottom in about four feet of water. She will probably be got off without much damage.

It would have been almost impossible for one acquainted with our harbor, to have made such a mistake, as did Capt. Davis, but it is however, gross neglect, not to have a proper beacon at the entrance of the new harbor before this time. The new light which can be seen at a distance lof 101 miles from the deck of a vessel, is to be exhibited for the first time on the 5th of May, and Elections, in New York, this year, occurred in every night thereafter during the season of navigation. It ought to have been up a month ago.

EDITOR WIBCONSIN ;- The News, in its Sun-EDITOR WISCONSIN:—The News, in 163 Sunday edition, makes the following announcement:

REMOVAL OF POLICENEN.—We understand that
Mayor Prentiss has removed the following members of the Police force:—Messra. Finnegan, Collins, Laughlin, Hannon, Krickee, Luther,
Eggerglias, Benzler, and Haack.

This statement is erroneous, so far as it relates to the manuar of the removals—whether inter-to the manner of the removals—whether inten-tional or not, I do not undertake to determine positively, but think I have a right to inter that the author intended it, like other false, and slauthe author intended it, like other false, and slauderous articles which emanated from the same press, just preceding the late charter election, to operate to my prejudice among the dismissed Policemen and sheir friends, and with the public at large in this city. I am willing at all times to shoulder any responsibility with which I am fairly charged, either in my individual or public enpacity. But to the facts:

On the 16th of the present month, I issued an order to the Chief of Police, of which the fullowing is a copy:—

Mayor's office, Milwaukee, April 16, 58. The present condition of the finances of the city, absolutely requires a outsilment of expenses in every department of the city government, so far as it can be done with a due regard to the prosperity and safety of the people residing with-in its boundaries. My duty, therefore, as the Chief Magistrate of the city, is a plair one—and is this: To render all the sid in my power in is tim: To render all the aid in my power in bringing about auch reforms, as will tend it effect this object. The Assistant ferce in the Police Department is unnecessiry large, [Constables now bothey vested by law with the same powers that Policemen possess,] and should be reduced to the lowest number that it can be—keeping the safety of the public in view.

I therefore direct that from and after the 18th of the avenut ment, the Assistant Forms in of the present month, the Assistant Force, in your Department, shall not exceed Eighteen in number, and you willimake the necessary ar-

Bock on the day of its date, and on the following day he called at my office with a list containing the names of all the assistant force, (27 in number) for the purpose, as he stated, of advising with me in relation to the dismissals.

The new Amendments to the Charter give the Uhief the right of appointment, subject to the Mayor's approval; and, having little knowledge of the merits or capacity of the men named on the list, I stated to Mr. Beck that, as he had made the appointments he must necessarily be nade the appointments, he must necessarily the better judge, and must decide who should be retained. To this he agreed, and we proceeded

The Newsand "Reform." Time does not seem to reconcile the News the nulcoked-for and unwelcome defeat which befell it and its faction, at the late Charter Election. It snoors at the "Reform" Council, and expresses a very contemptuous opinion of the whole "Reform" movement. We have no doubt that the News is perfectly sincere in this matter-Ever since the subject of "Reform" was meeted, the News has occupied an attitude of open and active hostility. The Tax-Payers' meetings at ter; the demand for "Retrenchment and Reter; the demand for "Retrenebment and Reform" in our City affairs, and the movement to

We will answer for one, at least, of the " opposition papers," the Sentinel, to wit, that it did not "applaud" Mr. GARDINER, but opposed his re-election. And as to Mr. HATHAWAY, it is notorious, that after the voluntary withdrawal of Mr. Comercek, who was the first choice of a large number of our citizens, the "Reformers" united very cordially in the support of the first named gentleman. The funny leature of the election was, to see the News, that pink of Democratic propriety, arging the Democracy to support for Comptroller the identical gentleman whom, just one year provious, it had opposed and denounced way that their efforts to save the building were unavailing. Eleven engines got to work, all of which had water upon the fire.

There; were four men in the mill at the time, two of whom were watchmen. One of them had made the circuit of the mill only a short dime before the fire broke out, and discovered nothing. The first intimation of fire was given by the blaze on the outside, which had been set by an incendiary. The loss will amount to about twenty thousand dollars, on which there is no twenty thousand dollars, on which there is no insurance.

A reward of $1,700 has been effered by business men in the city for the detection of the incondiary who fired this mill and the planing mill of Stanton & Goodwin, which was burned last Sunday. The reward will doubtless lead to the detection of the villain, and put a stop to such outrageous depredations. MELEN OF KIRKCONNEL.

Dear Spirit: -In looking over an old volume of Suotin poetry, a short time since, I was so much charmed by the following exquisite ittle balled, that I trust you may permit your reselvers to enjoy the same pleasure,—It is the composition of John Mayne, born in Dumfries, in 1761, and is full of trouternors and true necessic pathos. It was suggested by the following tragody: Helen Irving, a lady of great boardy and accomplishments, daughter of the Laird of Kirkeennel, in Annadale, was abstroked to Adam Membring de Kirkeatrick, a young gentiers of or ack and fortune in that neighborhood. Walking with the flower on the banks of the Kirke, a beauty and account of the selection of Mary, Queen of Mootie. HELEN OF KIRKCONNEL.

I wish I was where Holon lies,
F.r night and day on me she cries,
And, like an angel in the stee,
Rd seems to become.
For mu she lived, for me she died,
For me she wished to be a bride,
For me she wished to be a bride,
On face Kirkcounel Lee.

Where Kirtle's waters gently wind, As ilsen on my arm realined, A rival, with a rubbles mind, Took deadly atm at me. My Belen to disappoint the foo, Rudbod in belower me and the blow, And now her corpse is lying low, On fair Kirkgonnel Lee, Though Reaven forblds my wrath to swoli, I cures the hand by which the fell. Thoughout who made my which one tell.

The Bend who made my heaven a hiel,
And tere my love from mo.
For II, when all thene graces shine—
Oh! If on earth there's aught cityine,
My litebul all those charms were thine;
They contered all rathre.

Ahl what availy it that, amain, I ctow the sussessin's head in twain? No poace of mind, my lieten stain, No yestong place for me. I see her spirit in the at, I hear her shrink of wild dopair, when morter tid her become care, On fair Kirkounnel Lee.

Oh, when I'm siceplay in my grave, And o'every best the rank woods wave, and overly obset the rank woods wave, blay its, who file and spirit gave, finite my tove and no. Then, from this world of doubts and sight, by soul, on wings of peace whall rise, Aud, juling files in the skles, Wor, at Kirkconnel Lee. The Lu Crosse Stailroad.

AREST OF A FUGITIVE, UNDER THE EXTRADITION TREATY WITH PRUSSIA.—Letters from Paducah to the Missouri Republican say that that usually quiet city was a few daysage thrown into quiet an excitement by the arrest of a Prussian subject by the name of Edward Desling, under the extradilion treaty existing with that Government and the United States, under a charge of forgory and rand. It appears that Desling, under the assumed name of Lordy, had been stopping at the St. Francis Hotel for several days.—On Friday, Madame Lordy, a young, handsome and interesting lady, arrived from United so the following in the train of the unsuspecting lady ware four individuals, one of whom had kept an eye upon her every movement since she had lelt Chicago. The names of the mysterious suite are: Boyor, a New York police officer; Davis, a Chicago detective; Mulkko, an officer of the police from Prussia; and Mr. Lapau,a New York attorney, who registered his name on the hotel brooks as Samuel Johnson.

Six Lap Passenurss.—On Saturday last, says the Rechaster Union, when Conductor Tem Gliford was on his way from Syracuse to Buffalo, he found on leaving Syracuse that two scats in the cor were closely filled by a noman and six children. The lady produced but one tleket, and assured the conductor that all her little tamily were under six years of age, and were, therefore, not chargable with fare by the rules of the Company. Tom stared some, but on a close inspection of the little boys and girls, he became convinced that the oldest could not be seven years old, and so let them pass as dead-beade, or lap passengers. THE DAILY SENTINEL. THE GLORIOUS BURIAL OF KENTON

When human greatness sinks to the tomb, all that is glorious in human nature spontaneously rises to render it honor. The honor is not vain, for it is rendered to the nobler elements of our common humanity. Men honor greatness has rises to rendere it honor. The memory of course they have in them a share of the greatness honored. No moral spectace is more sublime than the consentaneous honored of the popular masses to the virtues of a strong and true man. Yesterday, in St. Louis, the long and glorions life of Thomas Hart Benton west crowned with a funeral cavation rarely accorded to mortal. The tribute of esteem and affection paid him by the prople among whom he had lived, and for whom and whose country he had loiled, was unnistated by fervant and sincere.

The memory of Benton yesterday absorbed the The sun areas upon a city attiring herself in moorning for the beloved dead. The throughfares were lung with the elequent symbols of fares were lung with the elequent symbols of

The sun arose upon a city attiring herself in mouraing for the beloved dead. The throughfarce were hung with the eloquent symbols of grief. Clixens of all conditions drayed their stores, shops and dwellings, in honor of Bouton. Partraits of his well known features were conspicuously and numerously placed before the public eye, in every quarter. Most significantly the national ensign frequently appeared, with its folds shrouded in crape, truthfully representing the genius of Columbia in mourning.

Treparatory to the final obsequies, the remains of Col. Benton were removed from the grand hall of the Morcantile Library building, to the main cantrance below. Of the gathering multi-tudes, hundreds who had not previously the privilege, were now permitted a parting glance at his features. Those features retained the lotty, tranquil, and gentle expression which the Hore's communion with death had left them.

By 10 A. M., the streets around and near the Mercantile Library hall were densely througod with people, while the crowds were every moment augmenting. The sky was propitious, yet mildly veiled by clouds almost tearful, as if in ayapathy. The stowly moving lines of military, of ci izon societies la regalla, and of apparently endless carriages, constituted a scone whose impressiveness was unspeakably, heightened by the teachingly plaintive meloties which thrilled the healted and serious multitudes.

At the hour above unued, the corpse of Col.

touchingly plaintive melodies which thrilled the hushed and serious multitudes.

At the hour above named, the corpse of Col. Beaton was reverently again transferred to the hearso, and was borne to the second Prospyteilan Church, at the corner of Flith and Walnut sts. Another hearse, bearing the corpse of his little grandage suggestively precedent. little grandson, suggestively preceded.

The procession moved to its sad music, mingled with the toiling of bolls, and flags draped in black, and residences, stores and public built ings decked with the insignia of grief, up Fifth street to Washington avenue, up the broad avenue to Ninth street, and up Ninth street to North Markot street. At this point, the military escort deliled and returned, while the civic bodies with the hearses, passed down North Market street to the depot of the North Missouri Rail-road. au. The liberal courtesy of the company had furnished cars, by which to convey a large portion of the cortege six miles distant, to the Bullefondam Cemetery. The corpson, pull bearers, relatives, committee of arrangements, &c., first tives, committee of arrangements, ac., mest passed on after which the train returned and convoyed many more. The ceremonies at the grave were appropriately brief, and were very impressive. The veteran's body was at lest lowimpressive. The voteran's body was at last low-impressive. The voteran's body was at last low-ored to its safest repose. By its side was placed the pure clay of his gentle grand-child. To-gether, the one unatouched and the other un-soiled by worldlness, the child and the great man were laid to rest.—St. Louis Democrat.
